

Budget Game Midpoint Review

The budget game is now more than half over – and you just started your first full-time job. You almost certainly noticed the changes that took place in the last month of the game compared to the first half.

Based on the class discussion and your own experience and expectations, how will the way you play the game change in the months going forward?

Write a half page game plan about how you will adjust your playing strategy now that you have a full-time job.
